

Holiday Death Toll Begins Climbing

Two Car Crash Takes Five Lives At Pittsburgh

Safety Council Hopes Christmas Toll Will Shock Motorists

By United Press
The New Year's holiday death toll began climbing slowly today as the four-day holiday got underway. Slippery roads in many sections of the Northeast and the Ohio Valley were expected to add to the predicted 490 traffic deaths forecast by the National Safety Council.

A two car crash described as the worst New Year's highway disaster on record in Pittsburgh, Pa., took five lives Friday night shortly after the holiday officially began at 6 p. m.

Four teen-agers and a steelworker were killed when their cars piled up on a curve. One youth survived the crash and was reported in fair condition.

Pennsylvania led the nation with 8 of the 23 traffic deaths reported. One person was reported killed in a holiday fire in Maryland bringing the present death toll to 24.

The National Safety Council hoped the shock value of the Christmas bloodbath in which 713 persons died on the nation's highways would hold accidents down but the prediction was 83 deaths greater than the New Year's record of 417 set during a four-day holiday in 1952-53.

Police were gambling on the hope that the Christmas slaughter would shock motorists into life-saving caution but most authorities agreed they did all they could last week end with little effect.

President Eisenhower voiced this hope in a special statement. He reminded motorists that Christmas turned out to be "a time of sorrow" for hundreds of American families who lost loved ones.

He said that the New Year's week end would inflict an "equally tragic toll" unless all drivers follow the rules of the road, keep a decent regard for the safety of ourselves and others and show a courtesy that reflects respect for the life and welfare of our neighbors.

The Weather Bureau predicted generally fair weather over most of the nation during the long holiday in contrast to the fog and ice which boosted the Christmas toll.

Good driving conditions, however, raised the danger that many motorists would feel the temptation to speed up on clear highways.

In the early hours of the holiday snow and rain blanketed much of the Great Lakes and the eastern section of the nation. Dry mid weather prevailed over the West and Northwest with some valley fog in the Great Plains region. In the South there were reports of scattered rain.

Retail Clerks Open Office

The opening of an office for members of Retail Clerks Local 896 was announced today by Guy Price, business agent.

The new offices, located over Jackson's Drug store, will be open for the convenience of the membership of Local 896 and membership dues may be paid at the office if desired, Price stated.

For many years the retail clerks maintained offices over the S. S. Kresge store, but the offices were destroyed by fire a few years ago and since then the local has not had office space.

Mr. Price also stated that the clerks local would meet only one time each month, with the first Monday in each month designated for regular meetings. Next meeting will be Monday, Jan. 7. The monthly meetings will continue to be held in the Labor Temple, it was announced.

Eldorado Man Retires From Auto Business After 42 Years' Selling

C. W. Johnson of Eldorado, thought to be southern Illinois' oldest automobile dealer in point of consecutive years in the business, has announced his retirement from the automobile selling field.

In 1915 Mr. Johnson sold his first automobile and now, 42 years and more than 4,000 cars later, he is quitting the business and returning to his first interest—farming and stock raising.

Mr. Johnson came to Eldorado as a young man about 1905, moving there from a farm in the Omaha-Cottonwood area. He operated his own butcher shop for ten years and was active in the business when he accidentally became a car salesman. He recalls that a friend, Charles Vaught, was greatly impressed by a new Reo Mr. Johnson had purchased in Carmi and decided he would like to own one. So the two made a trip to a dealer in Carmi, where Mr. Johnson had made his new car purchase several months before, only to learn that Eldorado was no longer in the Carmi dealer's territory and that it would be necessary to go to St. Louis to buy a Reo.

So the two Eldorado men rode the L. & N. to St. Louis, contacted the Reo distributor there, with Mr. Johnson doing most of the talking. Before the transaction was completed, the St. Louis people suggested that Mr. Johnson take over the Reo franchise in Eldorado, which he did, making a deposit of $125 for the franchise.

"That first Reo which I bought wholesale was turned at no profit as I sold it to Mr. Vaught at cost," Mr. Johnson stated. "And added, 'It began to look as though I might not sell another. That was in the summer of 1915 and it was February of the next year before I made another sale.'"

A Ridgway physician bought a Reo from Mr. Johnson in February of 1916 and then business began to pick up and within the next few months nine new automobiles had been sold by the Johnson agency.

There was a shortage of rail freight transportation during those times and it was necessary for Mr. Johnson to travel by train to Lansing, Mich., pick up the new automobiles and drive them back to Eldorado.

"The freight cost saved paid for my travel expenses and I enjoyed those long trips. And it really was a long way from Lansing, Mich., to Eldorado in those days," Mr. Johnson stated. He remembers that Indiana was way ahead of other states in road building, having several miles of good gravel roads that he used in his trips.

In 1918 Mr. Johnson took on the Dort agency and in 1923 received the Willys-Overland franchise.

"Those were my big years," Mr. Johnson recalled. "The coal mines were working good and the Overland was a low priced automobile, selling for $625. I sold 197 new

Authorize Pay Increases for State Policemen

Funds Still Must Be Appropriated By Legislature

SPRINGFIELD, Mo. — Pay raises for Illinois' 600 state policemen were authorized Friday by the State Police Merit Board.

However, the Legislature still must appropriate the money to pay the salary increases.

The new pay scales would cost the state an estimated one million dollars a year.

The merit board authorized the increases under a 1955 law which gave authority to the board to determine salary scales for the state policemen.

A spokesman for the merit board said Friday that if the Legislature did not appropriate money for the proposed increases, the board would have to reduce the recommended pay scales or the number of state police would have to be reduced.

The new proposal would allow starting patrolmen $400 a month. Under the present scale a first year man gets $325.

Under the proposed program sergeants would be raised from $390 a month to from $475 to $545, depending on length of service and lieutenants would go up from $420 to a minimum of $550 to $635 according to time of service.

Captains could get a maximum of $660 a month, also based on time in service and assistant chiefs, the highest grade controlled by the merit board, could get a top of $690 a month.

The proposed pay ranges were based on a 3 per cent increase for each three years of service.

The merit board recommended that the new pay scales be put in effect at the beginning of the new state fiscal year, July 1, 1957.

Violence Again Flares in Dixie Dispute Over Bus Segregation

By United Press

Violence has flared again in Dixie's long-smoldering segregation dispute. Negroes continued today their push for integrated bus seating, both in the courtrooms and on the buses themselves.

A one-day calm in the bus battle at Montgomery, Ala. was broken Friday night when a sniper twice shot at a city bus, wounding a Negro passenger and forcing a temporary suspension of the city's bus service.

A Negro woman, Rosa Jordan, 22, was struck in the legs by a bullet that tore through the side of a Montgomery city bus as it drove past a Negro housing project.

The bus driver, W. H. Fullilove, 47, drove straight to police headquarters, but resumed his route following questioning and was once again the target for a sniper.

Less than an hour after the first shooting, a bullet hit the bus about two feet from Fullilove and glanced harmlessly away.

Second Night For Snipers
It was the second night that snipers had made city buses their targets. Police Commissioner Clyde Sellers immediately suspended the city's bus operation for the night following the shooting. The city commission scheduled an emergency meeting for today.

Four days of court-ordered bus integration in Montgomery had passed practically without incident before Wednesday night when one bus was riddled by rifle fire and another sprayed by a shotgun. No one was hurt then.

In Birmingham, Ala., a segregation leader unfolded his plan for a "minuteman" method of keeping the color barriers up even if a federal court throws out Birmingham's bus segregation law.

White Citizens Council leader Asa Carter told a gathering of segregationists Friday night that he would organize "minuteman" vigilante groups to board buses in the event of trouble.

No injuries were reported. Warden Ross Randolph said the fire began in a lumber pile in the two-story building. Damage there was estimated at $40,000, with damage to the other building estimated at $10,000.

Randolph said the fire, reported by an inmate, did not appear to be incendiary.

The prison fire department attempted to fight the blaze with an army surplus fire truck but it broke down. The regular fire truck was at Pontiac, Ill. for repairs. The Chester fire department, prison firemen and inmates brought the fire under control in an hour and a half.

The flames threatened several other buildings, principally the commissary located along what is known as the prison's Main Street. Also on the street are the library, print shop, veterans administration office, barber shop and laundry.

Cairo Man is Arrested by FBI

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (UP)—A tip led to the arrest of Charles P. Rothschild, 36, Cairo, Ill., described by the FBI as "extremely dangerous" the police said.

Officers with drawn guns swooped down on Rothschild and his 20 year old wife, Linda Sue, at a motel here Friday.

Police found a shotgun and two pistols in Rothschild's car, which, they said, was equipped with a rear smoke tank. The tank sprays oil like a smoke-screen when a dashboard switch is turned, police said.

Rothschild was charged with being a suspicious person, two counts of carrying a pistol, vagrancy and loitering.

New York Police Intensify Their Search for Elusive 'Mad Bomber'

NEW YORK (UP)— Detectives were assigned to theaters and other public places today as police intensified one of the greatest man-hunts in New York history for the elusive "mad bomber."

The bomber's latest foray has touched off a wave of "bomb" plants and inspired scores of crank calls by pranksters.

Stepping up of the search was ordered after tests of the maniac's latest two bombs—discovered before their detonation—showed both to be capable of killing persons nearby.

The devices, discovered at the New York Public Library and the Paramount Theater, were detonated Friday by police and Army ordnance experts on the beach at Fort Tilden in Queens.

In the wake of the bomber's latest bomb plant Thursday at the Paramount Theater, bomb scares and telephone hoaxes reached epidemic proportions. Four fake bombs were found, including one at crowded Madison Square Garden Friday night, and at least 35 "scare" calls were received. They brought to 72 the number of crank calls made since Christmas Eve.

Bomb threats also were received at Jersey City, at the State House in Trenton, N. J., and at Philadelphia. All of the alarms proved to be false.

In Yonkers, N. Y., three 14-year-old boys admitted planting a simulated bomb in the Yonkers Public Library. They were seized after their call to a newspaper was traced.

Meanwhile, Police Commissioner Stephen Kennedy promised the bomber "the best psychiatric treatment available, if he gives up." The apparent psychopath has deposited at least 32 lethal calling cards in public places since 1940, causing injury to 15 persons.

Kennedy, other police officials, handwriting experts and psychiatrists have theorized that the terrorist is a deranged bachelor, at least 40-years of age, of German extraction. This theory was strengthened by the bomber's last telephone call which a Paramount Theater switchboard operator said was from a man with a German accent.

Include Work On Rt. 45 South Of Carrier Mills

Plans Call for Millions on Projects in Nearby Counties

Details of Illinois' 1957 primary highway construction and improvement program reveal the state plans to spend nearly a million dollars on Route 45 south of Carrier Mills and an estimated fifteen million dollars on interstate four-lane highway construction and right-of-way, chiefly in Williamson, Union and Johnson counties.

Also revealed is Route 13 improvement and planned improvement both east and west of Marion.

Details show 1957 plans call for bituminous resurfacing of 7.65 miles of Route 45 between Carrier Mills and a point near the Williamson-Johnson county line at an estimated cost of $890,000. They also reveal that an estimated $5,000 will be spent for right-of-way acquisition for future work on Route 45 between Harrisburg and Eldorado and $5,000 for the same purpose between Eldorado and Gossett.

Divided Highway
The interstate highway construction program for 1957 calls for building a four-lane divided highway from a point on Route 13 just west of Marion southward to about one mile north of Pulleys Mill in Williamson county, a distance of about 11 miles; construction of a four-lane divided highway from Illinois Route 146 east of Anna-Jonesboro southward to the Union-Pulaski county line, a distance of about eight and a half miles; and the construction of structures between these two stretches of pavement necessary for completion of this section in subsequent years.

Details reveal that in the above four-lane highway work there will be a total of 30 grade separation projects, nine bridges, and six interchanges where other highways come in contact with the interstate road.

Breakdown of the estimated cost figure reveals $13,515,000 for construction, $810,000 for right-of-way acquisition, for 1957 construction and $690,000 for right-of-way cost for future construction for a total of $15,015,000.

Route 13 Program
Counties of District 9, which has headquarters at Carbondale, where right-of-way will be bought for future construction of the interstate highway are Franklin, Williamson, Johnson, Union, Pulaski and Alexander.

Quite a bit of work is on the program for Route 13, including the following:

An estimated $813,000 expenditure for 3.73 miles of concrete paving on Route 13, from Carterville Crossroad to Route 148 south of Herrin in Williamson county and an estimated $150,000 for additional right-of-way for widening purposes to four-lane.

An estimated $122,000 for right-of-way acquisition for future construction of 5.04 miles of four-lane.

Fourth Major Brush Fire Breaks Out In Foothills Above Palos Verdes

MALIBU, Calif. (UP)—The fourth major brush fire in four days broke out early today in foothills above the heavily-populated city of Palos Verdes Estates as an army of fire fighters were battling to quell flames raging in this movie colony resort area.

The new fire was spotted by an airline pilot approaching Los Angeles International Airport.

The Palos Verdes Estates Fire Department said at least one home has been destroyed. The city's fire department called for "all the help we can get" and the county rushed all available fire crews to the area.

More than 12 engine companies were reported at the scene. The fire reportedly is spreading along famed Palos Verdes Drive toward the city.

A spokesman at the Palos Verdes Estates Fire Station said arson was suspected as the cause. One big fire a day has broken out in tinder dry foothill areas of southern California since Wednesday.

Adds to List
The new fire added to the growing list of major brush fires out of control in the inferno that is southern California. Less than 20 miles away from Palos Verdes Estates weary fire fighters have been battling to control three major brush fires. Fires here, at nearby Zuma Beach and at Lake Sherwood are still out of control.

The new fire is centered on the scenic Palos Verdes Peninsula which juts into the Pacific. Ft. MacArthur and the cities of San Pedro and Wilmington are in the peninsula area.

Diminishing winds during the night gave fire fighters hope that they could halt the brush fires that have destroyed at least 65 homes and caused more than 60 million dollars damage to property and vital watershed land in this beach playground.

More than 2,000 weary firefighters have been thrown into the battle against the three major blazes. The first fire started here Wednesday and was followed in the next two days by big blazes at nearby Zuma Beach and in the fashionable

SIU Country Column

By Albert Meyer

A new year is just ahead. This is the time for making new resolutions—and re-making some that were broken last year. Surely broken resolutions have a certain nuisance value, even if for no more reason than the mental exercise it requires to think of them and the moral uplift coming from good intentions—however short-lived. There is always the chance that we may have the stamina to keep a worthwhile resolution, reaping benefits to ourselves and our fellow men.

Farmers would do well in these last days of the old year to review activities of the past 12 months, and make an inventory of successes or failures. Those who have kept a good system of records—as every farmer should—will have the desired information at hand. If there is no money in the bank account, the records will tell where it went and will indicate whether or not the funds went for a good cause. If there is money in the bank, the book will show what good farming practices or enterprises made possible the surplus.

Modern farming requires a good system of records for success. The large amount of capital invested in the enterprise and the high cost of production means that a farmer needs to know whether or not he is making a profit and where mistakes, if any, are being made. Today the farmer is operating a business—a big one. If he repeatedly makes mistakes and does not know for sure where they are being made, he may find himself out of business before he realizes it. By checking his records he will know what enterprises on the farm have been successful. He may want to expand those in the new year if the long range outlook seems to indicate a similar trend in the year ahead.

Good farm records are essential for making sensible and accurate reports in this day of income and social security taxes. Savings may be achieved which will more than pay for the relatively small cost of keeping records. Farm advisers can furnish information on obtaining farm record books and tax report forms.

Now is the time to make plans for the busy season ahead and to do the odd jobs around the farm that have been put aside in the rush of growing and harvesting crops.

Successful farm management comes from making some general decisions on what the cropping and livestock program will be in the coming year. Here, of course, accurate records on the past year's operation will set the standard. Various government reports on the national picture in agriculture—holdings of food and fiber, farmer intentions on livestock and poultry production and crop plantings, price forecasts, and business predictions—ought to be taken into consideration in planning a program for the year. Perhaps a change in the crop rotation plan will be necessary because of the soil bank program or for some other reason. By deciding now on land improvement and fertility programs, savings may be achieved by purchasing fertilizers at an opportune time.

What is the condition of the farm shop? Have all the tools been put back where they belong and are they all in good condition for use? Chances are that the shop needs attention. These winter days are the proper time for this job. When the shop is in shape, start making needed repairs to buildings, gates, feeders and farm equipment. Making repairs early adds greatly to the life and usefulness of the farm plant and equipment.

Number of Horses, Mules Decline

WASHINGTON (UP)—The Census Bureau reported Wednesday the number of horses and mules on U. S. farms has dropped to the lowest point in the 146 years it has been keeping records.

Officials said there were only 4,100,000 in the last count taken in 1954, compared to 25,200,000 at their peak in 1920.

In 1940 when the first U. S. census was taken, such farm animals numbered 4,300,000. The number has declined by almost half since 1950 when they totaled 7,600,000. The decline is attributed to mechanization of farm work, largely by substitution of tractors for horses and mules.

Items of Agricultural Interest

RIGHT FROM THE FEED BAG—Hogging the space at his favorite "dairy bar," Pee-Wee the pig nurses from his foster-mother, Bitsy, the cow. Rejected by his own mother, who had 10 other piglets to nurse, Pee-Wee follows Bitsy to pasture on the John Ingle farm near Collierville, Tenn., staying with her and nursing whenever he's hungry. It's okay with Bitsy, but she drives away other pigs that try to muscle in on the free chow.

Better Management Practices Urged for Southern Illinois Herds

Carbondale, Ill.—Using better management practices would mean higher incomes for many of the farmers in a six-county area of southern Illinois who have beef cow herds for producing feeder calves.

That is the conclusion of Harvey S. Woods, Southern Illinois University farm management specialist, in his economic analysis of the organization and operation of a group of southern Illinois farms which had beef cow herds. The study was a cooperative research project of SIU, the University of Illinois, and the Production Economics Research Branch, Agricultural Research Service, U. S. Department of Agriculture.

For his study, Woods used a sample of 66 farms with beef cow herds in the area comprising Pope, Hardin, Massac, Johnson, Union and Pulaski counties. Selections were made from members of the Egyptian Livestock Association, Vienna, who kept 10 or more brood cows in 1954. His objective was to determine the conditions under which the enterprise of producing feeder calves can be recommended as a profitable farm business to farmers in the area.

Woods found considerable variation in size of farms and quality of land. The 66 farms ranged in size from 143 to 1,023 acres, averaging 393 acres. Twenty-one had less than 300 acres. The average land value, as evaluated by the cooperating farmers, was $60 per acre. Approximately three-fourths of the land was classed as open tillable or pasture land that was free of brush, trees, rocks and other interferences with cultivation.

More labor was available than was used on most of the farms. Both labor and land resources tended to be large in relation to capital resources on these farms.

All of the farmers produced feeder calves in 1954, but none relied on sales of beef cattle as the only source of income. On the average, cattle accounted for 33 percent; hogs, 15 percent; and feed and grain crops, 40 percent of total receipts. Other sources were sales of sheep, dairy cattle, poultry, fruit, and vegetables.

Woods found that generally there were too few cows on the farms for the beef herd to constitute more than a supplementary enterprise. Only 5 of the 66 farms had 80 or more cows, the number needed on a specialized beef cattle raising farm to keep one man productively employed. The average size of herd for the 66 farms was 35 brood cows. Forty-seven farms had fewer than 40 cows per herd.

Generally, the farms had more acres of hay and pasture per cow

This Week at DIXON SPRINGS

(A round-up of the week's work, activities, and observations at the University of Illinois Dixon Springs Experiment Station near Robbs in Southern Illinois, prepared by the Station's staff.)

Using More Hay

The most common fattening rations for yearling steers include 25 percent to 30 percent of roughage. This winter George Cmarik, cattle researcher, is pushing the roughage level up to 45 percent. He is test feeding rations containing 45 percent, 35 percent and 25 percent of hay.

Last winter George fed steer calves and got such surprisingly high gains that he saw the possibilities for high-roughage, pelleted fattening rations. This year the hay and grain are being ground, mixed, pelleted and self-fed. Watch for reports of this work—it should be interesting.

Wintering Steers

As a continuation of last year's work with wintering rations, steer calves have been lotted to test the comparative effectiveness of alfalfa silage, alfalfa hay and Sericea hay. Long and pelleted hays will again be compared. New to the trial this year is the Sericea hay. Also, the cattle researchers plan to use the rumen bacteria additives to see whether they will increase gains from the roughage. This should be another interesting trial.

Leaves of Corn

George McKibben, crops and soils expert, tells us that the leaves are excellent indicators of the dry-matter content of the entire corn plant. However, the heads are better indicators of the dry-matter of sorghum plants.

The dry matter in 27 different corn hybrids harvested for silage in 1956 averaged 41.5 percent. The average dry matter in the leaves alone was 39.8 percent; stalks, 28.7 percent; and ears in husk, 48.8 percent.

The dry matter content of 22 ensiled forage sorghum varieties averaged 28.5 percent, and the heads averaged 28.1 percent. On these same sorghums the leaves averaged only 12.9 percent while the stalks contained as much as 59.0 percent.

When we ask George the value of this information, he pointed out that for oven-sampling dry matter to determine the proper stage for ensiling, the entire plant need not be sampled. In sampling we need use only corn leaves and only sorghum heads.

In the "old days" farmers just naturally expected to lose a certain number of their baby pigs. But evidence today shows that a farmer doesn't "just naturally" have to lose so many of his pigs. In fact, he can't afford it.

Dr. Jesse Sampson of the University of Illinois College of Veterinary Medicine says that Illinois has been cooperating with about a dozen other midwest states in studying death losses of baby pigs.

This study has shown that baby pig losses apparently occur primarily from three causes: (1) faulty nutrition of the sow during pregnancy, (2) bad housing and environmental conditions at farrowing and (3) exposure of the newborn pigs to various infections.

Dr. Sampson explains that faulty nutrition of the pregnant sow can involve a number of deficiencies in the diet, such as lack of enough vitamin A and protein in the ration. Cold, damp pens and farrowing quarters may lead to scours and other digestive disturbances that take their toll of young pigs. He adds that baby pigs seem to be particularly susceptible to infections of the digestive tract.

Dr. Sampson emphasizes the importance of adequate nourishment for young pigs, especially during the first few days of their lives. Some pigs are weakened because they can't get enough milk from the sow.

Artificial heat can be used to prevent chilling of young pigs in cold weather.

able home-dotted Lake Sherwood area.

Stars' Homes Jeopardized
Among the film celebrities whose homes were threatened or licked by flames of the fires were Jane Russell, Kim Novak, Alan Ladd, Glenn Ford, Eve Arden and Bob Hope. Ralph Edwards lost his $75,000 beach home to the fast-moving fire near here Wednesday.

"I'm so sorry for the people who lost their uninsured homes and for the animals which were burned," Miss Russell said.
Los Angeles County Fire Chief Keith Klinger hoped that the Malibu and Zuma Beach blazes could be brought under control this weekend. Klinger, however, warned that a sudden shift in winds could spring the blazes into new fury.

One Fatality So Far
The major fires raged with a 100-mile perimeter, spreading over 40,000 acres. One man has been burned to death and above 75 persons, mainly firefighters, have been treated for minor injuries.
Fire officials are investigating the possibilities of arson in two of the three major blazes. Arson squads also investigated three other brush fires that had plagued Los Angeles County in the past four days.
The fires broke out at the height of an abnormal drought season in tinder-dry brush in foothills of the Santa Monica mountains. Winds reaching gusts of 70 miles an hour fanned the Malibu and Zuma Beach fires into raging infernos during their early stages.

Princess Grace May Give Birth to Baby Early in January

MONACO (AP)—Princess Grace may give birth to her baby earlier than was previously expected, it was reported today.
Palace sources said leading French doctors who examined the former Grace Kelly just before Christmas have informed Prince Rainier he will probably become a father before the end of January. Earlier estimates were for the first 10 days of February.

Mistaken Notion
That the "O" before Irish names stands for "of" is a common but mistaken notion. Properly, the "O" is the Irish word "of" which means "descendant." Thus, O'Neill means "son of Neill."

Incredible? U. S. Gov't Owns More Than It Owes

WASHINGTON — Incredible as it may sound, the U. S. government apparently owns a lot more than it owes.
As of Dec. 21 the government still was 276 billion dollars in the red.
But the House Government Operations Committee reported Friday that an incomplete survey showed Uncle Sam owned 238 billion dollars worth of real and personal property as of last June 30. And a spokesman said later returns may push the government's total assets to twice that figure.

Fires, Explosions Around Nation Kill 7 Persons

Six Members of Family Die at Ironwood, Mich.

By United Press
Fires and an explosion blazed around the nation on the eve of the New Year holiday, killing 11 persons and crumbling seven buildings of an industrial explosives plant. Also burned were two buildings at the Menard, Ill. state prison.

The worst of the mishaps took place in Ironwood, Mich., where six members of one family were killed when their two-story frame house burned.

Mrs. Ina Heilig, 31, died together with her four children and a nephew, 13-year-old John Gallo. The children were Dennis, 10; Sandra 9; Linda 7, and Keith 2.

Five other persons died in another residence blaze near St. Mary's, W. Va. The dead were Layman Speece, 55; his wife, Dolly, 47; their daughter, Mabel; and two grandchildren, two-year-old Harry Speece and one-year-old Brady Jr.

Authorities said the daughter used crude oil to start a fire in a wood-burning stove, and the oil exploded.

One person was burned critically and five others suffered minor injuries in an explosion at the American Cyanamid Co. near Edenburg, Pa. The blast wrecked seven buildings.

Plant chemist Orrin J. Calderwood, who was working in the building where the explosion occurred, was critically injured. Cause of the blast was not immediately determined.

Mr. Conte will culminate his visit in the area this week with a lecture to which the public is invited, entitled "Has God's Purpose for Mankind Failed?" This lecture will be delivered in the local Kingdom Hall, 519 East Walnut street, at 3 p. m. Sunday, Dec. 30.

Eldorado Man Retires From Auto Business

cars one year and remember selling four one afternoon. I drove a new Overland out to Grayson and sold four to miners there after work."

The Willys and Overlands were shipped out of Toledo, Ohio and Mr. Johnson decided to make a 25-car purchase at one time, taking drivers by train to Toledo and driving the autos back to Eldorado.

When he went to the depot to purchase 25 tickets the agent told him the railroad would furnish a special car for that large a party, so the Eldorado men made the trip in style. And at Toledo they were welcomed by Willys officials, being met at the railroad station and taken to the company offices in a fleet of cabs.

And when they were ready to start home the 25 autos and drivers were lined up and a picture made. Later each of the men received a print and Mr. Johnson's picture still occupies a place of distinction in his office. One of the drivers was Guy Roberson, long friend, who still lives in Eldorado and drops in to chat with Mr. Johnson daily.

In 1933 Johnson became the Chrysler and International truck dealer. His first truck sale was to Orval Dean, Harrisburg. "It was a big transaction for both of us and we figured for hours at the Horning hotel. About 2 a.m. we made the deal," Mr. Johnson recalled.

When Mr. Johnson purchased his new Reo in 1914 there were only a dozen or so automobiles in Eldorado and the new one created lots of attention. He said that each night he and Mrs. Johnson put quilts over the car to protect it from the dew and they took even better care of it in winter.

When the weather turned bad Mr. Johnson said he took off the tires and wrapped them in paper, also took the battery in the house to protect it.

Then when the weather moderated he would get the car ready for use and it was during a warm spell in February that Mr. Vaughn took a ride in the Reo and decided he wanted one just like it and that was the beginning of a business that was to continue 42 years, during two world wars and a major depression and also in peaceful, prosperous times.

Mr. Johnson's retirement has been announced officially for Jan. 1, but he will probably be busy an additional month closing out all the details of the business.

In talking of his early butcher shop days, Mr. Johnson said he purchased beef for 3 cents per pound and pork for a little less and top grade meat sold in the shop at 10 cents a pound.

He worked for a few months before buying his own shop, starting at $9 a week and later being promoted to first butcher and getting a raise in salary to $12 weekly, plus his meat and lard. "And I saved money on a handsome salary like that," he declared.

Shop hours were long, with regular hours from 5 a.m. to 7:30 p.m. 5 days a week and on Saturday staying open at least until 10 p.m. And during busy seasons like wheat harvest, the shop would open as early as 3 o'clock in the morning.

Mr. Johnson hasn't sold his automobile business, but has surrendered the franchise and no one plans to take it, to his knowledge.

He will spend his future years in looking after his farming interest and Angus cattle, a far cry from the highly competitive automobile business. But after 42 years Mr. Johnson thinks he has earned the rest.

The coconas, a tropical fruit found in the Amazon Valley, has berries the size of apples growing in clusters.

THE GLEAM FROM BEYOND THE CLOUDS

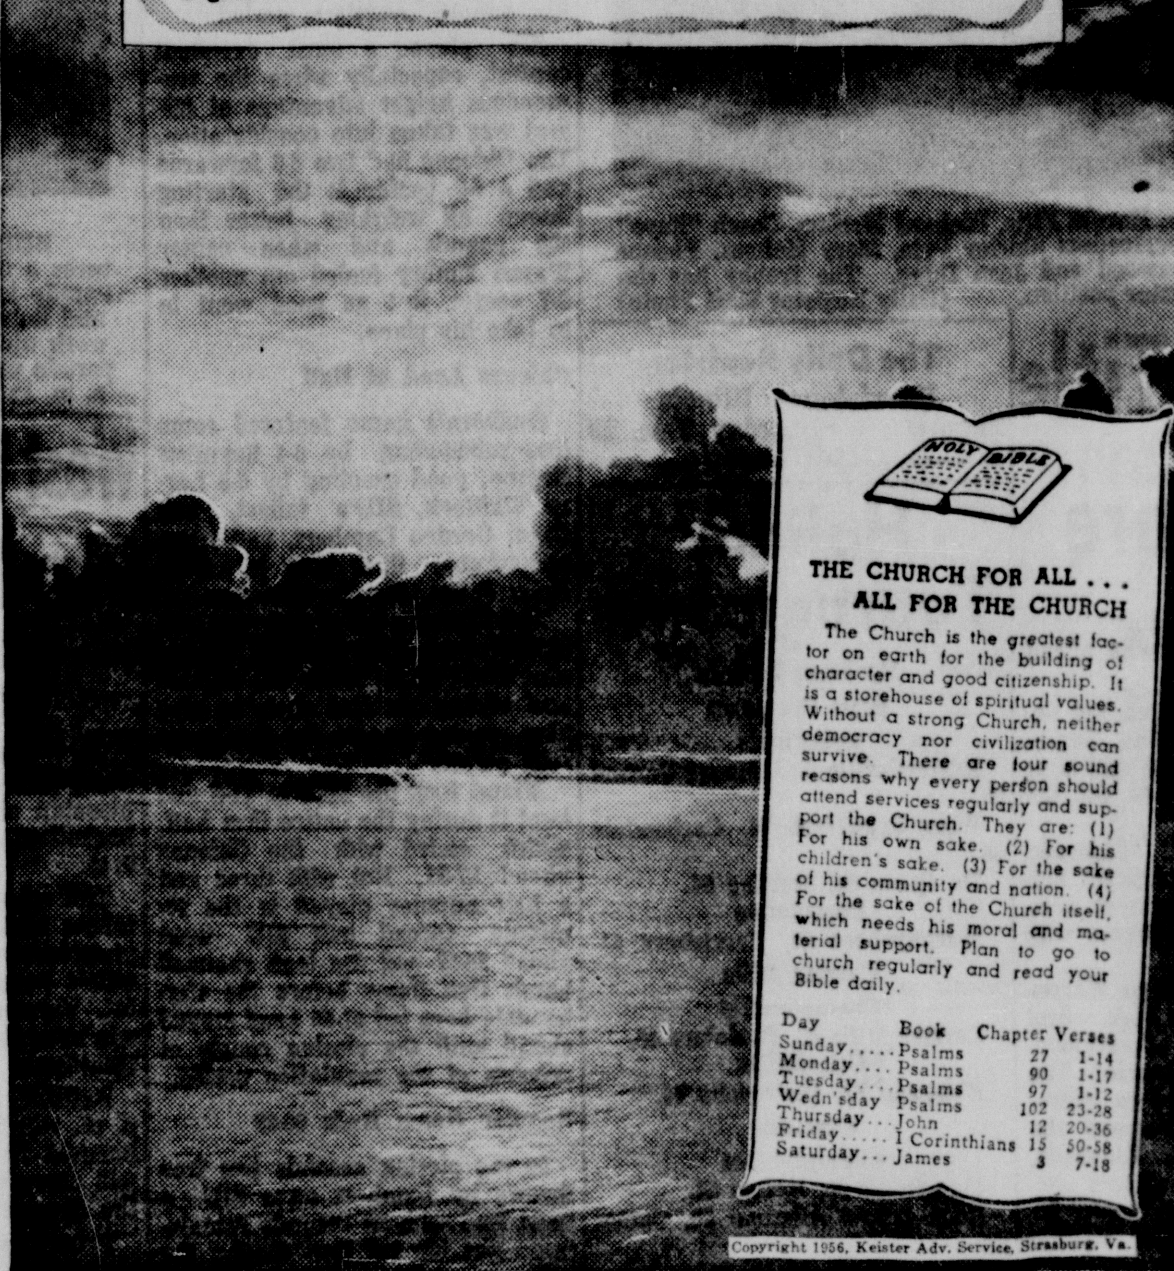

There may be folks who dream of a new year with no clouds over the horizon. But life has taught most of us that there is never a day free of uncertainty.

Some like to rejoice in the calm of today and give no thought to the clouds of tomorrow. There is a contentment without strength, a happiness empty of hope.

But stronger souls see both the calm and the clouds. And they look beyond the clouds to the Light whose rays bathe the horizon.

These are the souls who face the new year with faith in their God. They know the days will not be without shadow. The ripples may sometimes become angry breakers. But they follow the gleam across another year . . . the Gleam from beyond the clouds.

The Church is for those who would look ahead . . . ever toward the Light.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL . . . ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

'The New Heaven And Earth'

Revelation 21:1-8; 22-27

GOLDEN TEXT: "And I heard a great voice out of heaven saying, Behold the Tabernacle of God is with men, and He will dwell with them, and they shall be His people, and God himself shall be with them, and wipe all tears from their eyes; and there shall be no more death, neither sorrow, nor crying, neither shall there be any more pain: for the former things are passed away." (Rev. 21:3-4)

INTRODUCTION — We are disturbed on every hand because of world conditions. Sometimes we are prone to think that old Satan has this world in his grasp never to let go. However, my friend, that is not the truth. There is to be a final day of victory for all the forces of righteousness.

All this trouble, sorrow and heart-ache is man's fault. It began in the Garden of Eden. There the first battle was staged. The final battle has not as yet been fought, but when it is, you will be on the winning side, IF YOU KNOW CHRIST AS YOUR OWN PERSONAL SAVIOR.

In today's lesson, we see the holy city come down from God. This is where is all who love the Lord will dwell forever and forever.

I THE HOLY CITY (1-8)

How glorious is this picture! The earth has passed away. There is no more sea to separate the peoples in this holy city. It is prepared as a "bride adorned for her husband."

God is with us today in the presence of His Holy Spirit. Then he will "dwell in their midst."

Oh, and look at His people. There will be no more tears, no more death, no more separation. What a happy people they shall be. Friend, that longing for loved ones, and those tears, will all be gone forever. How do I know? God says so right here!

II OUR WORSHIP THERE (V. 22)

Here in this world we have to have a special place of worship. There in the holy city we will need no such place. "And I saw no temple therein." Why is this? "For the Lord God Almighty, and the Lamb are the Temple of it."

III THE LIGHT OF HEAVEN (V. 23-26)

There will be no need for a sun nor moon, "for the glory of God did lighten it, and the Lamb is the light thereof."

We must have light to give life to every living thing here on earth. In the holy city, we will have God and the Lamb (Jesus) to give us light eternally. We will have warm fellowship with Him forever and ever.

CONCLUSION (V. 27) The big question for you, friend, is found in this verse. The only ones who will be found in this holy city are "they which are written in the Lamb's book of life." Is your name written there? If not, it can be if you make confession of all your sins to God and trust His Son Jesus Christ (the Lamb) as your own personal Savior.
